

A framed illustration of three stylized houses. The house on the left has a brown roof with black wavy patterns and six small square windows arranged in two columns of three. The middle house has a blue roof with horizontal black stripes, a single circular window, and a large black arched doorway. The house on the right has a green roof with black wavy patterns and six small square windows arranged in two columns of three. Above the houses are two grey rain clouds, each with vertical lines indicating rain falling. Small green plants are at the base of each house. The entire scene is enclosed in a white rectangular border, which is itself within a larger grey frame.
